APCD is the Secretariat of ASEAN Autism Network (AAN) since 2010

In January 2010, the 5th APCD Workshop for 'The Capacity Development of Self-Help Organizations of Persons with Disabilities (CDSHOD)' was held in Bangkok. During this workshop, an idea to establish an autism network in the ASEAN region was proposed and informally agreed by the family members of the autism community from Brunei Darussalam, Myanmar, Philippines, Vietnam, and Thailand. It was proposed that the Network be a platform to engage and empower parent support groups and self-help organizations to work for an autism-friendly ASEAN region. To support this movement, APCD was tasked to organize an Autism Workshop.

The ASEAN Autism Network (AAN) was formally inaugurated during the Autism Workshop organized by APCD in cooperation with JICA in Bangkok on 13-15 December 2010. This unique gathering brought together 27 representatives from 9 countries, including Brunei Darussalam, Cambodia, Indonesia, Lao PDR, Malaysia, Myanmar, Philippines, Thailand and Vietnam. Each participant had a person with autism in their family. A core concept of the workshop was 'Family Comes First'.

Vision:

1. Family support groups to collaborate, cooperate, coordinate, and unite in developing a holistic autism curriculum that would be local, affordable and accessible. Strategies and intervention programmes would be non-discriminatory in support of families, including those economically challenged. More importantly, the extended family structure on which the ASEAN community is based would remain the basis of any developmental programme and strategy.
2. Autism advocacy in ASEAN. It would work at the national and sub-regional levels to promote the rights of persons with autism. Self-advocates could be supported to form their own groups at the community level.
3. Discussion of autism-related issues to promote information sharing and facilitate common approaches.

Mission

To support, assist, facilitate and enhance autism-related family support groups in collaboration with other stakeholders in the ASEAN region and globally.

Objective

To educate, develop, and provide opportunities for family support groups, helping them to grow towards achieving global standards with reference to the United Nations Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities

(UNCRPD) and other international and regional instruments relating to autism.

The Network was completed as 10 member countries when Singapore joined the network in 2016. Every country member is moving actively to promote and protect the rights of persons with Autism in their country.

In 2019, in cooperation with the Ministry of Labor and Social Welfare (MLSW), Government of Laos, Association for Autism (AfA), Japan Foundation Asia Center and other partners, AAN Country member nominated more than 50 representatives, including potential athletes with autism, their parents/ family member as trainers from the ASEAN region took part in the 'Training of Trainers (TOT) on Inclusive Development through Disability-Inclusive Sports (DIS) in Mekong Countries and Japan' in Vientiane, Lao PDR, from 7 to 13 July 2019.

Vientiane Recommendation on Adapted Sports for Tomorrow of Potential Athletes / Persons with Autism within the Mekong Sub-Region Countries and Japan

We, the potential athletes/representatives with autism, their teachers/parents/supporters as trainers and resource persons from Cambodia, Japan, Lao PDR, Myanmar, Thailand and Vietnam, 40 persons in total, participated in the “Training of Trainers (ToT) Inclusive Development Through Disability-Inclusive Sports (DIS) in Mekong Countries and Japan” organized by the Ministry of Labor and Social Welfare (MLSW), Government of Lao PDR, Autism for Association (Afa) in Laos, Japan Foundation Asia Center, and Asia-Pacific Development Center on Disability (APCD), in cooperation with ASEAN Autism Network (AAN) and other partners, from 7 to 13 July 2019 in Vientiane, Lao PDR.

Notifying that a mutual understanding has been assembled as an output of the Training to fast-track the sub-regional movement on recreation, leisure and adapted sports through the platform of the promotion of cultural collaboration through adapted sports for tomorrow for the “Mekong-Japan Exchange on Autism Sports for Tomorrow”.

We hereby consistently recommend as follows: Consideration should be given to the potential athletes/persons with autism, their teachers/parents/supporters as trainers in developing the ‘adapted sports’ principle such as Running, Swimming and Dodge-bee in each of Mekong Sub-Region Member States, taking into consideration that the topic of adapted sports for persons with autism is relatively new in some Mekong countries. With support from the Japan Foundation Asia Center and AAN member countries, the consensus is on capacity building/development of potential athletes with autism or persons with autism in becoming real athletes with autism through various techniques in the accomplishment of small tasks, friendly assignments, adapted sports regulations during the Training.

These goals should be reflected by giving potential athletes an opportunity to showcase their sports skills in the ASEAN Para Games in the Philippines in 2020 and the Tokyo Paralympics 2020 and other activities such as participatory workshops and further actual practices which could be organized within some Mekong countries, other ASEAN countries and Japan, with emphasis on participatory methods among persons with autism and their parents through their organizations.

Sustainable Social Development and Economic Growth through Community-Based Inclusive Development (CBID) 4th Asia-Pacific Community-Based Inclusive Development (CBID) Congress 2019

The Ulaanbaatar Declaration on the Community-Based Inclusive Development The 4th Asia-Pacific Community-Based Inclusive Development (CBID) Congress 2019 was held on 2-3 July 2019 in Shangri-La hotel, Ulaanbaatar, Mongolia.

The main aim of the Congress was to provide a regional platform to exchange lessons learned and good practices on the economic empowerment of persons with disabilities in order to break the cycle of poverty towards sustainable social development and economic growth through CBID. It further intended to strengthen collaboration among representatives from governments, leaders with disabilities, Disabled Peoples' Organizations (DPOs), Civil Society Organizations (CSOs), International Non-Government Organizations (INGOs), youth groups and service providers from Asia-Pacific countries.

We, the representatives of organizations of persons with disabilities and other non-governmental organizations, governments, development agencies, donors and the business sector from 43 countries, in total 643 delegates, participated in this Congress. Our special gratitude goes to the organizers - Ministry of Labour and Social Protection Mongolia, the CBR Asia-Pacific Network and collaborators WHO, UNESCAP, JICA/DPUB, Leonard Cheshire, Liliane Foundation, CBM International, Italian Association Amici di Raoul Follereau (AIFO), and Asia-Pacific Development Center on Disability (APCD) and all the partners in making this Congress successful.

This year, the world will undertake its first cycle review of the implementation of the 2030 Agenda and its 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). An evaluation of progress and plans for acceleration would be incomplete without addressing effective inclusion of people with disabilities in the SDGs. Disability is specifically referenced in multiple indicators of 11 SDGs in the monitoring of the SDGs. CBID therefore has a significant importance in ensuring the inclusion and development of persons with disabilities towards the successful implementation of the SGD 2030 Agenda and other international development frameworks.

The two days of the Congress highlighted best practices of inclusion of persons with disabilities in all sectors. However, the discussions also pointed out that people with disabilities face persistent inequalities in social, economic, cultural, environmental, and political spheres.

The following consensus was derived from the discussions that took place during the course of the two days of Congress with the overall aim of CBID being recognized as an effective strategy for achieving the SDGs and ensure that there is a strong focus on leaving no one behind.

1. Eliminate the barriers causing exclusion of persons with disabilities, such as discriminatory laws and policies, lack of accessibility in physical environments and ICT, negative attitudes and stigma, lack of access to assistive technology and to health services, and lack of measures to promote independent living.
2. Mainstream disability – in areas such as social protection, education, employment, and basic services, including health care services, water, sanitation, and energy.
3. Disability-inclusive development investment should be regarded as an investment in the future, the benefits of which will be enjoyed not only by people with disabilities, but also by other excluded groups including the world's rapidly growing older population.
4. Regional consultations should be continued as these play a strong role in identifying regional challenges while bringing in governments and various stakeholders to discuss issues jointly.
5. We believe that:
  - CBID enhances and strengthens Community-based Rehabilitation (CBR) 'towards community based inclusive development';
  - CBID is a person-centered approach where local government, people with disabilities, community members and organizations take collective action for achieving inclusive development within their communities;
  - CBID is an approach for realizing the UNCRPD;
  - CBID is an approach to ensure the achievement of the SDG Agenda so that no-one is left behind;
  - CBID is an approach to transform society so that everyone, including persons with disabilities are included.

The Fifth Asia-Pacific CBID Congress to be convened in 2023.

We reaffirm that the main objectives of this training were to develop the capacities of community leaders with/without disabilities and government representatives working with and for the rights of persons with disabilities, to understand the concept of Sufficiency Economy Philosophy (SEP), to promote Disability-Inclusive Development activities in perspective of Community Based Inclusive Development (CBID), and to strengthen regional collaboration and networking among countries. As a result of this training, a platform was developed to empower and promote the inclusion of persons with disabilities in line with the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) 2030 Agenda and other international development frameworks.

Furthermore, we collectively endorse that SEP plays a significant role in ensuring the inclusion and development of persons with disabilities towards the successful implementation of the SDGs by creating an inclusive and sustainable community.

We hereby recommend the following:

1. With the support of TICA and APCD, the consensus and outcomes of this training should be interpreted and implemented in parallel to the respective national plans, especially the introduction of SEP as a promising inclusive concept for persons with disabilities.
2. APCD to expand the training on Disability-Inclusive Business (DIB), and to share knowledge and experiences of the 60+ Plus Bakery and Chocolate Café project through bilateral and multilateral cooperation. The 60+ project can be replicated in South Asian Countries.
3. Both policy makers and community leaders should participate in the training course to ensure that participants can get an equal opportunity to be exposed to actual work experiences in the field for in-depth understanding of the SEP concept.

4. Attention should be paid by local, national and regional bodies to develop the potential of persons with disabilities through CBID, and to implement service programs that is tailor-made to the needs and requirements of persons with disabilities.
5. Government mechanisms to encourage policy coordination is necessary to maintain, strengthen or establish a framework to promote, protect and monitor the implementation of the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD).
